

ADVANCE INFORMATION SHEET

Elena's Shells

Rose Robbins

A sweet and simple tale of compassion and sharing.

Elena loves her impressive collection of wonderful seashells. So, when a sneaky shell escapes, Elena uses all her efforts to get it back. Only then she discovers that the shell is home to a hermit crab. Will she find it within herself to help the hermit crab, or is keeping her shells her one and only priority? This is a simple tale of compassion and sharing.

- Children will relate to this lively and brightly illustrated tale about a young character who likes to collect shells.
- The story demonstrates that sometimes finders aren't keepers and that sharing, rather than selfishness, is often the best course of action.
- The main character puts compassion for others over her own selfish desire.

The Author-illustrator

Rose Robbins is a children's book author and illustrator currently residing in Nottingham, United Kingdom. She has been making books since the age of 7 when she received a stapler for her birthday. As well as books, Rose makes ceramics, puppets, felt and soft toys. She can be found either stuck in a story, or thinking about a new story - anything to get out of doing the dishes or putting out the laundry.
